

Marshall Is Disappointed Over Failure Of Big 4 Meet

By DAN DELUCE

Berlin, April 25 (AP) — Secretary of State George C. Marshall, pausing in Berlin on his way from the four-power conference in Moscow, reiterated today his disappointment in the results of the Moscow meeting of foreign ministers.

"I had hoped very much we could get an agreement on the Austrian treaty," he said. "I would not attempt to guess when that can now be achieved."

He added, however, that the four foreign ministers — from Britain, France, Russia and the United States — would meet briefly in September during the United Nations assembly sessions in New York and hold their next formal conference at London in November.

Marshall said that a possible meeting of the big three — President Truman, Prime Minister Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee — had not been discussed during his stay in Moscow.

In U.S. Saturday

Marshall's plane arrived at Tempelhof airdrome at 1:25 p. m. (6:25 a. m. EST). The secretary is due in Washington tomorrow night, and is planning a formal radio report to the American people soon after that.

He said "there was no possibility of a German treaty at Moscow because of the vast number of considerations."

"But I had hoped," he continued, "to get more agreement on fundamental issues, which would permit

Fairfield May Close Its High School; Littlestown Change Being Considered

Littlestown may establish a junior-senior high school this year and Fairfield may close its high school.

Both possibilities are indicated by meetings to be held within the next few days in Fairfield and Littlestown.

A community meeting will be held at the Fairfield high school at 7:30 o'clock this evening at which the school board plans to discuss with the people of the community, the problem posed for the school by the legislative act 413 which will reduce the amount the state pays toward the operation of the Fairfield school.

County Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh is scheduled to attend the Fairfield meeting, it was learned today, to join in the discussion.

Seek Town Opinion

While no decision will be made by the school board members at the session, it was believed that the attitude of the community citizens present this evening will go far toward enabling the board to decide whether or not to continue with the high school at Fairfield. One of the smallest schools in the county, it will have its state appropriation slashed next year and increased revenue will have to be sought from the taxpayers of the town if it is to continue.

On Wednesday evening the German, Conewago, Union, Mt. Pleasant and Mt. Joy township school boards will meet with the Littlestown board at 8 o'clock daylight saving time in the Littlestown high school to discuss the possibility of Littlestown establishing a junior high school. If the boards agree to send their seventh and eighth grade students to Littlestown such a 6-3-3 curriculum will probably be established. Littlestown school officials said today.

State Forces Change

The 6-3-3 system means that only the first six grades will receive customary elementary instruction, that the next three grades will be given special junior high school courses and the last three grades have a special high school curriculum.

Such an arrangement would aid the townships in rearranging the schools to meet the requirements of the new school system and also bring the school system in that section in line with current school practice, it was pointed out. Latest school textbooks, for one thing, are all based on a 6-3-3 set-up, school heads explained.

With East Berlin having received this week tentative approval to establish a junior-senior high school from the Department of Public Instruction, and if Arendtsville and Fairfield's high schools close this year only two four-year high schools will remain in the county, Gettysburg and York Springs.

Straban Has Problem

As at New Oxford and East Berlin, the Littlestown board plans to have both junior and senior high school

HEAR PLANS FOR NEW PARK HERE

Committees representing the Elks, Eagles, Moose, American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars met Thursday night at the Moose home and heard plans explained for a new public park and playground in Gettysburg.

Property is available, William E. Knox, spokesman for the Moose said, and could be developed with a playground, baseball diamonds, and picnic tables.

Representatives present said they were delegated by their respective organizations to attend the meeting and obtain information on the playground plans, but were without authority to act until they had reported back to their own clubs.

Most of these organizations will hold meetings within the next few days. Providing the clubs approve, representatives will be named to contact other organizations, including the borough council, relative to their recreation plans.

The two students thus became part of a group of five from throughout the diocese who will compete for the diocese title. The southern district eliminations were held at Delone high school in McSherrystown. Miss Hemler spoke on "Forgotten Crosses" and Foye spoke on "The Housing Problem." Many Pa. Phone Workers Ignore Order To Strike

Philadelphia, April 25 (AP)—The 6,000 maintenance repair workers of the Bell Telephone company of Pennsylvania were ordered to join the nationwide strike today but many refused.

The non-striking workers, members of the Federation of Telephone Workers of Pennsylvania, are employed in central Pennsylvania—in an area reaching from Allentown to Altoona.

Bell officials declared that "better than 99 per cent of the plant union men in central Pennsylvania are working which is about 1,100 daily or 1,750 for the seven-day week."

All Federation workers in Harrisburg, Scranton, Allentown, Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Easton, Pottsville, Reading and Williamsport were on the job, the company said. Local union officials confirmed the reports generally.

At Harrisburg, A. W. Walters, president of the Federation's local 14, said 300 workers had ignored today's 7 a. m. (EST) strike call by State President William S. Leary.

Here And There News Collected At Random

The Public Library Demonstration bill now before Congress is a piece of legislation which should draw support from every resident of Adams county. It provides federal assistance to states for the demonstration of "adequate" free public library service to persons now without it, or inadequately served.

Statistics prepared by the American Library Association and the Pennsylvania Library Association show that Pennsylvania is in the middle bracket among the 48 states in free library service. Between 30 and 45 per cent of the population is without library service. A number of states, among them Maine, North Carolina, Mississippi, Wisconsin, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana and four western states show from 15 to 30 per cent similarly situated, while New York, the middle New England states, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Wyoming and California have less than 15 per cent without library service. Pennsylvania, it will therefore be seen, has the greatest population without library service.

The purpose of the public demonstration bill is "to provide means for studying various methods of providing public library service, principally in rural areas, and for studying the effect of planning on an area basis upon the development of library service."

S 48 in the Senate, and HR 2465 in the House, provide that: "State library agencies may submit plans for use of federal

"Our union is a federated setup," Walters said, "and our central division is autonomous and makes its decision independently of the state president."

Walters announced that J. V. Bourke, Senadoah, chairman of the union's central division, is preparing to call a meeting next week "to resolve the situation."

"Starting All Over"

Washington, April 25 (AP)—President Truman and his cabinet discussed the nation-wide telephone strike today.

There was no indication, however, of prospective government action other than federal conciliators' moves for new union-management negotiations in the 19-day-old tie-up.

Cabinet members told reporters that the strike "came up" during their 35-minute session with the President. Secretary of Interior Krug said the "only new thing" is that "they are starting all over again." He referred to the union-management meetings arranged here by federal conciliators seeking to end the strike.

COURT REFUSES 2 PAROLES BUT GRANTS A THIRD

Two petitions presented to the Adams county court today for paroles were refused and a third was granted. The court placed P. X. Cook, Gettysburg, sentenced to from three to six months in jail January 6 on a larceny conviction, on parole for one year. Cook had served his minimum sentence as of March 7.

The application of Paul J. O'Kenka, Baltimore, convicted of burning a motor truck to defraud an insurance company, was refused by the court. O'Kenka was sentenced February 1 to serve from six to 12 months in jail. Mrs. Anna O'Kenka, the defendant's mother, asked that her son be paroled in her custody. Evidence was submitted to show that O'Kenka was released in 1939 from the Skylesville, Md., institution "at Mrs. O'Kenka's insistence and against medical advice."

The court said that if O'Kenka were a medical case, he would be

COUNTY TO PAINT DOZEN COVERED BRIDGES WHITE

Twelve Adams county covered, wooden bridges, the last 12 still under control of the Adams county commissioners, will receive double coats of white paint on their sides and a coat of brown paint on their tops during this coming summer. There are 20 other covered wooden spans in the county under state control.

The commissioners will advertise Saturday in The Gettysburg Times for sealed bids for painting the covered wooden bridges. The commissioners seek separate bids for each bridge and a certified check for five per cent of the bid must accompany each offer. The bids will be opened at a public meeting May 28 at 10 a. m.

All of the 12 are of such ancient origin that no record is available concerning the date of their erection, Commissioners Clerk Clarence C. Smith said today. He estimated that many of the structures may have been serving during Civil War days.

White Held "Safer"

The group includes the double span, each 111 feet in length, crossing Conewago creek at Kuhn's ford, between Hamilton and Reading townships; the 191-foot Brown's Mill bridge across the Conewago between Hamilton and Reading townships; and the 90-foot Gitt's Mill bridge across the Little Conewago between Oxford and Mt. Pleasant townships; the 73-foot structure at Kohler's Mill, also over the Little Conewago between Oxford and Mt. CHOIR, BAND PLAN CONCERT HERE MAY 11TH

The Gettysburg College Choir and the Gettysburg College Concert band will present a joint concert in the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium on Sunday evening, May 11, at 8:30 o'clock for the benefit of the music department of the college.

The college choir, recently returned from an extended concert tour where it played to the largest audiences in its history, is considered by many music critics as the finest college choir in the east. It is under the direction of Parker Wagnild, head of the music department at the college.

The choir of 50 mixed voices will present the first half of the concert and the concert band of 45 pieces will present the second half of the program.

No admission will be charged to the concert and it is open to townspeople as well as college students and members of the faculty. There will be a free will offering. The entire proceeds from this offering will be turned over to the music department of the college.

Mr. Wagnild and Mr. Harner announced today that their groups will present a new and varied program of music that should prove of interest and entertainment to everyone. The choir has been rehearsing many new numbers since its return from a long tour and the concert band has been rehearsing for several months in preparation for its debut before a local audience.

MANSLAUGHTER COUNT IGNORED BY GRAND JURY

The April grand jury, which completed its deliberations Thursday, and reported to the court late Thursday afternoon, found eight true bills, involving eight defendants, and reported "not a true bill" in the cases of two others.

"Not a true bill" was reported in the case of Mrs. Lloyd Richardson, Gettysburg R. 3, who had been held for court on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Clement A. Hartman, 82, of Cashtown.

Local Man Cleared

Mr. Hartman was struck by Mrs. Richardson's automobile on the afternoon of January 22 as he crossed the Lincoln highway in Cashtown and died the next day in the Warner hospital here.

The grand jury also found "not a true bill" in the case of Robert C. Aughinbaugh, 25 North Stratton street, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile child.

In another indictment, "not a true bill" was found in Aughinbaugh's case while true bills were found against Richard Arentz, Gettysburg, and John H. Rudisill, Biglerville road, on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile. Arentz and Rudisill were also indicted on this charge in another true bill.

Other True Bills

Other "true bills" returned by the grand jury were:

Earl Miller, Gettysburg R. 3, operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner; Lester H. Murto, Gardners, operating a motor vehicle while under the influence; Lois Miller, Fairfield R. D., assault and battery; John Mays, Littlestown, assault and battery; Robert L. Shultz, Orrtanna R. 2, assault and battery; Wesley Carleton Ingram, Catonsville, Md., involuntary manslaughter.

True bills had previously been reported in a partial report at noon against Ray H. Simmons and Robert L. Staley, Mechanicsburg, for murder; Charles Bowser, Abbottstown, larceny; and Oliver Carter, Gettysburg R. 5, operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner.

Jail Condition Bad

The grand jury visited the county jail and submitted the following report:

"We find unsanitary conditions, bad plumbing, and toilets in bad condition; walls deteriorating to the extent that the mortar has fallen out on the outside making it more easy for escape; inside walls in very bad condition, which creates a hazard to the prisoners and adjacent properties.

"The floors need repairs, the kitchen needs to be renovated by papering and painting, also the hall or main entrance.

"We found the place kept in a good sanitary, or clean condition, considering conditions in general."

INVESTIGATION OF ALLENTOWN PLANT URGED

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Calling for a full-dress congressional investigation of the wartime record of the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft Corporation's Allentown, Pa., plant, Rep. Ploeser (R-Mo.) declared the record was "great job of bungling and one of the scandals of the war."

A member of the House subcommittee on navy appropriations, Ploeser said he has turned over all data on the plant to Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), chairman of the House expenditures committee, which he said will conduct the investigation.

The plant-produced planes, known as the Sea Wolf, never were used in the war, said Ploeser who related that the navy department paid $85,000,000 for only 180 torpedo-bombing planes.

Charges Waste
He said he sought the investigation after receiving a report from the navy's bureau of aeronautics "voicing its official disappointment at Consolidated's poor production record at Allentown."

Ploeser added that he told navy officials during appropriation hearings last year that some day the navy would be "smeared" with responsibility for the "waste of taxpayers' money" and the "ills and corruption" he said were found at Consolidated.

Ploeser's announcement said: "The Allentown plant was created on December 15, 1942, employed about 5,000 people through V-J Day, and here is its record:
"In 1944 it produced exactly two planes. During 1945 the monthly production rate was: January 8, February 6, March 11, April 14, May 20, June 33, July 40, August 40, September 6, total 180."

COURT REFUSES

examined in Harrisburg, and if not, should answer to his sentence here.

Sims Parole Denied
Court also denied the petition for parole of Bert J. Sims, Fairfield R. 2, convicted on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile and sentenced February 10 to serve six months in jail. He has served two and a half months of his sentence and his parole was sought on the ground of illness in his family. Sims admitted that since he has been in jail he has communicated by letter with the juvenile involved in the case, and the court held that he had "not learned his lesson," yet.

The court ordered Alexander Draper, Hanover R. 3, to pay $10 a week for the support of his wife and to pay the costs of the prosecution, and enter into a bond of $500 on his own recognizance. He was charged with desertion and non-support.

Calvin L. Taylor, Biglerville R. D., entered a plea of guilty to a surety of the peace charge, was released by the court in $500 bond, with directions to pay the costs, and warned to keep the peace.

The case of Glenn Noel, New Oxford, arrested for desertion and non-support, was marked settled, on payment of the costs by the defendant, when Noel and his wife told the court they were living together again.

Upholds Baseborn Decision
The case of Joseph McSherry, of East Berlin, held for contempt of court in a desertion and non-support case, was also marked settled. McSherry and his wife agreed to live together again, and he was given three months to pay the costs.

The judgment of Justice of the Peace John H. Baseborn in the case of Carroll M. Zentz, of Gettysburg, charged with making a false statement on an application for dealer's automobile tags, was upheld by the court, following a hearing. Zentz had already paid a fine of $100 and costs to Squire Baseborn, the court was informed. He was ordered to pay the additional costs.

Luther Freed, Hanover, charged with being in arrears approximately $200 in support payments to his wife, Mildred, was adjudged in contempt of court. He was ordered to renew his bail, make an immediate payment of $50 and was given until May 19 to pay the balance of the arrearage.

Reno Divorce Not Good Here

Freed was ordered, on September 16, 1946, to pay $10 a week for his wife's support. He testified that he went to Reno, Nev., and in December, 1946, obtained a divorce from his wife. The court held that the Nevada divorce was not good in Pennsylvania.

May 19 was set as date for a hearing on the petition of Lee Brock, Gettysburg R. 3, for revocation of a support order.

The cases of Clyde Monn, Gettysburg R. 3, and Donald Rentzel, Harrisburg, were continued to May 19 to give both opportunity to make up arrears in payments. Monn was convicted on a morals charge and has not paid a laying-in charge, the court was told, and Rentzel was behind in support payments.

The court approved 18 final accounts submitted for approval.

COUNTY TO PAINT

The 43-foot Swift run bridge across Swift run in Mt. Pleasant township; the 91-foot Stone Jug Number 1 bridge across the Conewago in Butler township; and the 54-foot Stone Jug Number 2 bridge across "Possum creek" also in Butler township; the Deardorff's Burnt Mill bridge, an 111-foot structure in Butler township over "Possum creek and three bridges over the Bermudian, Haar's bridge, an 80-foot span in Latimore township; Heikes', a 64-foot structure between Huntington and Tyrone townships, and the 89-foot Spangler's bridge in Tyrone township.

White paint for the sides and brown for the top were selected by the commissioners for two reasons. It was stated today. The most important was that it will make the bridges more visible to motorists, the second reason is that it will be a "change" from the red that has covered wooden bridges since the days of antiquity, and "will be better looking."

The fronts of the bridges will be painted with white and black diagonal stripes for even greater visibility and warning to motorists.

Huge Damage By Floods At Easter

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP)—Preliminary estimates of damage caused by the Easter floods in northwestern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York counties total $4,500,000, the Pittsburgh district army engineers office reported today.

"The Easter flood was the head-water type," Col. W. E. Lorence said. "It struck first on French Creek, then on Brokenstraw Creek, then on Conwango Creek, and then along the upper Allegheny river."

"Thousands of acres were inundated and three lives were lost. Bradford, Pa., suffered its third recent great flood beginning with that of July 1942. Jamestown, N. Y.; Warren, Pa.; Irvine, Pa.; and Meadville, were hard hit. Olean, N. Y., was saved by its dike system."

Marshall Is

more work to be done between now and the next conference."

Marshall said the Moscow conference had received "a fair draft" of an Austrian treaty.

Apparently still fresh after the first leg of his long flight to Washington, the secretary indicated that the mere clarification of the issues blocking Allied unity in Germany had been an achievement.

"We brought them into the light," he commented.

Difference Is Clarified
He declined comment on whether western Germany would become more unified in the next few months, but declared:

"I do not think the difference of opinion between Russia and the western Allies was increased at Moscow. It was clarified. We came to a clear understanding of what were the disagreements."

He declined to hazard a guess as to how long it would take to settle the key German issues, which include reparations.

"These critical questions must be reconciled," Marshall said. "The question is: How long can Europe endure while we are struggling with these problems."

Robert Murphy, Clay's political adviser, returned to Berlin aboard Marshall's plane. John Foster Dulles, Benjamin Cohen and Charles Bohlen were other members of the secretary's party.

Wants World Peace

"I am sorry that we did not make more progress," Marshall said at Moscow just before boarding the plane which is scheduled to set him down in Washington tomorrow night, "but I imagine that as we look back in the days ahead we will see that much more was done than we realized at the time."

Using the same line of thought he employed in a toast last night at a sumptuous farewell banquet given by Prime Minister Stalin in the Kremlin, the American secretary told his audience at the airport that he came from "a young country, and therefore an impatient country."

But, he added: "Our purpose, even in our impatience, is utterly sincere — to see that peace comes to the world and to the minds of men."

Marshall said he was not certain when he would make his radio report, but that it probably would be some time after Sunday night.

JOHNNY MIZE HITS 3 HOMERS AS GIANTS BOW

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Life is tough with the New York Giants when big "Jawn" Mize hits three home runs off a 20-game winner and the club hits rock bottom in the National League cellar.

Manager Mel Ott has only one consolation in his miseries. He has distinguished company in the world champion St. Louis Cardinals who also have won only two of their first seven starts in the bright new season.

Despite his slugging feat, Mize was able to get the Giants in the ball game yesterday at Boston. Johnny Sain was coasting along with a big early lead before Mize started to do his stuff, hitting round trippers on each of his last three trips to the plate. Another homer by Walker Cooper also failed to discourage Sain who got home with a 15-4 verdict.

The Braves used only one homer, by Danny Litwhiler, in their 21-hit salute to five New York pitchers, starting with loser Monty Kennedy.

Cubs Nip Pirates
The home run also had its place in the Pittsburgh-Chicago game but it was Don Johnson's single in the eighth that gave the Cubs a 6-5 edge over the Pirates, reducing their lead over Brooklyn to a half game.

The Brooklyn Dodgers continued to prove their mastery over the Phillies. Dixie Walker's first-inning single with the bases loaded accounted for both runs of Ralph Branca's 2-0 shutout over Tommy Hughes.

Joe Cronin's Boston Red Sox salvaged the last of their three-game set at the Yankee Stadium, shading New York, 1-0, on Tex Hughson's two-hitter.

Indians Blank Sox
Don Black, a reformed character, pitched Cleveland to its fourth straight win, a 1-0 shutout of Chicago with a neat four-hit job. Pat Seery's second inning homer was the difference between Black and Johnny Rigney.

The St. Louis Browns, shut out in three of their first five starts, nudged Virgil Trucks, Hal White and Stubby Overmire for 10 hits and a 6-1 edge over Detroit. Jack Kramer, the only Brownie winner, gave it all he had with a three-hitter.

Philadelphia and Washington were not scheduled in the American and the National game between Cincinnati and St. Louis was postponed because of wet grounds.

Bullets-Diplomats Hold Grid Scrimmage

The Gettysburg and Franklin and Marshall college football squads wound up their spring football training programs by holding an hour and one-half scrimmage on Memorial field Thursday afternoon.

There was little to choose between the squads although the Bullets showed a slight advantage. Although scoring was ruled out, three passes clicked for the Bream-men which would have resulted in scores had a real game been underway. The Diplomats were held well in check throughout the workout.

The ball was alternated between the squads after a sequence of offensive work.

Each of the coaches made use of nearly all members of their squads.

MID-ATLANTIC AGAINST BAN ON RECRUITING

Swarthmore, Pa., April 25 (AP)—The Middle Atlantic States Collegiate Athletic conference was on record today opposing a move to halt recruiting of athletes by college officials.

The opposition followed hours of debate on six points which had been adopted by the Eastern College Athletic conference. The Middle Atlantic group said it subscribed in general to the five other rules but that it opposes the one which reads:

"No member of an athletic staff or other official representative of athletic interests shall solicit the attendance at his institution of any prospective student with the offer of financial aid or equivalent inducements."

Said Carl Dellmuth, Athletic director at Swarthmore college: "There is no more reason why an athletic staff member of the faculty can't interest a boy in coming to Swarthmore than say a chemistry professor in pointing out the advantages of the institution to a prospect."

Dr. E. Leroy Mercer, University of Pennsylvania director of Athletics, added: "It is not wrong for an athletic coach to go out on a mission for his college, but what we are aiming to eliminate is the offering of actual financial inducements. We are trying to curb certain abuses."

The debate came last night as the Middle Atlantic group at its spring meeting here considered the Eastern conference rules. The Eastern conference now has 12 members of a planned membership of 36 colleges. Included among the planned membership are the 33 schools represented by the Middle Atlantic group.

BULLETS ENTER 7 IN RELAYS; FAVOR ILLINI

Philadelphia, April 25 (AP)—The University of Illinois sends its speed-conscious track team off today on what may be the road to the most coveted of collegiate cinder laurels—a new record in the Penn Relay Carnival.

Only a juggled baton kept the Illini from equalling the all-time mark of four major relay victories in last year's meeting, and as 3,000 athletes got set for the 53rd annual carnival, Illinois appeared to have a strong chance to establish a new mark.

For returning to the Franklin Field scene are Herb McKenley, one of the world's greatest quarter-milers; Bob Rehberg, middle distance star; John Twomey, distance runner; Bill Mathis, sprinter, and George Walker, sprinter and hurdler.

Two Gain Wins

Only twice in the history of the big spring panorama have colleges scored four major relay victories. The University of Pittsburgh, with Johnny Woodruff leading the way, turned the trick in 1939 and the University of Michigan in 1945.

Manhattan's strong distance runners rate just behind Illinois in team strength.

The only other serious contention to Illinois is expected to come from New York university and Penn State. The Violets of NYU showed strength in capturing the indoor IC4A championships recently and Penn State's distance runners—Gerry Karver and Curt Stone—have impressed in the winter circuit.

Coach Roy Bloomingdale took a seven-man squad from Gettysburg college to Philadelphia this morning for the Relays. Included were a mile relay team of George Johnson, Hummel Fager, George Motter and George Hann, with John Yost as alternate, and Charley Rambo, pole vault, and Bob Snodgrass, discus.

During recent years about a third of the tomato crop used for processing has been purchased on the basis of U. S. standards.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, April 25 (AP)—When Joe Louis and the 20th Century club announced that heavyweight elimination series yesterday amid a minor mob scene in Mike Jacobs' office, one of the most surprised guys present was Vic Marsilio, Jersey Joe Walcott's manager. . . . "Here I find we got a fight and I don't know nothing about it," Vic explained. . . . According to Louis, the Walcott-Joe Maxim scrap is all set for June 16 at Gilmore stadium at Los Angeles and Marsilio didn't say he wouldn't take it. . . . Ezzard Charles may be an added starter after he visits Sol Strauss here Saturday. "He will be considered too if he wants to come in," Strauss said, but Sol immediately went on to say he couldn't match Charles and Gus Lesnevich for the light heavyweight title without extensive dickering with Gus. . . . Hed better dicker with the weather man for a break on September 19. There's no other date for the big fall scrap.

UNFAIR TACTICS
Sixty-nine years ago the South's oldest collegiate baseball rivalry nearly busted up when Pitcher George Augustus Sykes of Washington and Lee baffled Virginia batters with balls which "gyrated with abnormal curvings." . . . Tomorrow William McElwee, Sykes' catcher, will be guest of honor when those schools renew the series which began in 1867. . . . Publicitor Lea Booth adds: "Curves will again be thrown," he hopes.

ONE MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

It wasn't six players the Dodgers offered the Phillies for Del Ennis this spring—it was ten. . . . No wonder Herb Pennock and Ben Chapman are now making eyes at some of Brooklyn's surplus talent. . . . Another Branch Rickey offer was $50,000 cash for a Philly farmhand he wouldn't even name. . . . Nebraska track fans already are getting worked up over a mile duel between Gil Dodds and Bobby Ginn in the A.A.U. meet July 4-5. They're two local boys who made good. . . . Needham Wins For Albany Senators

(By The Associated Press)
Russ Needham, veteran Albany Senator righthander, was off to a good 1947 Eastern League start today, a two-hit hurling job against the Hartford Chiefs. Needham, sent back by Indianapolis this spring, retired the Hartford batters in order in six of the nine innings he worked at Albany's Hawkins stadium yesterday.

However, he failed to gain credit for the Senators' 2 to 1 ten-inning victory, going out for a pinchhitter in the ninth. Sal Cuttitta hurled one inning for the win.

The weatherman dominated the rest of the Eastern league picture, rain forcing postponements of the Binghamton at Utica, Williamsport at Elmira and Scranton at Wilkes-Barre contests, the latter two scheduled home openers.

a 69 over a par 72 golf course at Montebello, Calif. . . . He's going right back there in a couple of weeks to try to improve that score. . . . Pete Karpuk, rookie pitcher with the Toronto Maple Leafs, was born at South Porcupine, Ont. . . . He probably will stick.

Today's Talk
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON LOAN

How unfortunate it is that so many place such a high value upon possessions. No matter how great one's wealth may be, or the accumulation of precious things, they are merely loans. There is no personal permanence to them.

The mental and spiritual enrichment that possessions give is their only real value. Their intrinsic value may be disposed of in the marketplace. A jewel-bedecked mind far outshines the showy jewels that adorn the ears, the neck, arms, or fingers. These latter are merely loans that in time run out. The rich mind, however, gives forth lustre from generation to generation!

This beautiful earth is on loan to every human being. From it he finds sustenance, and its mysteries and wonders often baffle his imagination and understanding, but it is his own free gift from the Creator. And tucked away in every corner are opportunities, awaiting his grasp and offering to him some sort of fruition.

Even love is on loan to us. When we stop replenishing it and distributing it, it leaves us for wiser and more understanding minds and hearts. Knowledge is on loan to us, and if we don't keep watering and enriching it, it too, becomes static or stale. Kindness, goodness, and generosity are all interest-bearing. Their value does not fluctuate like the listings of the stock market. Their values are ever on the up grade.

Life is loaned to us—and we can make it as high in value as we like. Whitman said that he was "immense!" We all may be. It's a feeling.

Our abilities are loaned to us. Edison appreciated this thought and so gave lavishly to the joy and profit of all mankind. Henry Ford believed this too. I talked with him many times and he told me that there was no joy in mere money making, but in useful service to the greatest number.

All of us should give serious consideration to this fact. If we hide our talents, doing nothing about them—they are soon taken from us, like the one talent in the Bible story. Bankers will have nothing to do with loans that pay no interest!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Faith, The Substance."

Mr. Rice was the unanimous choice of executive committee members of the Democratic party of Adams and Franklin counties, Thursday night, at Parnell, Franklin county.

SENATE TO ADD RESTRICTIONS IN LABOR BILL

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
Washington, April 25 (P)—Senator Ball (R-Minn.), predicted today that the Senate will write more restrictions on unions into its general labor bill—and Senator Aiken (R-Vt.), said that would "assure" a presidential veto.

Ball and Aiken, both members of the Senate Labor committee, expressed their views in separate interviews as the Senate got set to resume debate (noon EST), on curb strikes and limit union activities.

Ball claimed that at least 50 Senators will vote for four amendments which would add fresh checks on labor organizations to the Senate measure. That is two votes more than needed to assure adoption.

Stiff Amendments
These amendments, sponsored by Ball and other Senators, would:

Authorize private employers to petition for court injunctions to block jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts. (Jurisdictional strikes usually stem from disputes between unions as to which should do given work. A secondary boycott is an effort by a union to hit at one employer by forcing other employers to stop dealing with him.)

Outlaw union-administered health and welfare funds.

Forbid national unions to coerce their locals into accepting contract terms.

Like House Bill
Make it an unfair labor practice, subject to injunction, for unions to coerce or interfere with workers in the exercise of their collective bargaining rights.

The Hartley bill approved by a three to one majority in the House last week has all of these provisions and many other union curbs which are not in the Senate measure.

But both bills would outlaw the closed shop, which permits the boss to hire only union members; authorize court injunctions to halt or stave off "national paralysis" strikes; free employers of any obligation to bargain collectively with foremen; set up a new federal mediation service; and permit suits against unions for breach of contract.

Hollywood Bowl Is Denied Wallace

Hollywood, April 25 (P)—A May 19 speaking engagement for former Vice President Henry A. Wallace was tossed right out of the Hollywood Bowl today.

Directors of the Bowl association, operating the county-owned 20,000-seat amphitheater as a nonprofit organization with a 99-year lease, disclosed they had turned down a request by the Progressive Citizens of America for use of the bowl for that purpose.

President C. E. Toberman of the Bowl association said "the directors decided the bowl should not be used as a springboard for ideologies foreign to the majority thought at this time."

Wallace's recent speeches in Europe stirred up a controversy at home and a Bowl association statement said that "the reaction of a large portion of public opinion to the recent speeches of Henry Wallace indicates that his appearance in the Bowl would undoubtedly produce discussion of a highly controversial nature."

Willa Cather, 70, Expires Thursday

New York, April 25 (P)—Willa Cather, Pulitzer prize-winning novelist, died of a cerebral hemorrhage late yesterday at the age of 70.

Her works included "My Antonia" (1918), "Death Comes For The Archbishop" (1927) and her last, "Sapphira And The Slave Girl" (1940).

The Pulitzer award was given for "One Of Ours" in 1923.

Although born in Virginia, Willa Sibert Cather was reared in Nebraska, and many of her novels had midwestern settings.

Miss Cather was for six years managing editor of "McLure's magazine" before beginning her career as a novelist. Her first novel was "Alexander's Bridge," published in 1912. Earlier, however, she had published verse and short stories.

She had lived in New York many years.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Elsie Cather, of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. Jessica C. Auld, of Palo Alto, Calif., and two brothers, John E. Cather, of Whittier, Calif., and James D. Cather of Long Beach, Calif.

CUT ATHLETIC
Philadelphia, April 25 (P)—L. W. Foster Sportswear Company, Inc., announced today its 1947 fall line will be offered at prices leveled to the 1944 and 1945 averages. The company's price reduction move, estimated to bring consumer savings of approximately $1,000,000, is aimed at "revitalizing purchasing power," President Lou Foster said.

RECONVERSION NOTE
London, (P)—Eros, the god of love, received a bath today and London officials promised him his old stand back in Piccadilly circus soon. The London county council said the 400-pound figure, which was hidden in the Surrey countryside during the war, would be polished and restored to its pedestal by June.

BOMBS BLAST POLICE BILLET IN PALESTINE

By EDWARD CURTIS

Jerusalem, April 25 (AP)—Bombs blasted a police billet, in a suburb of the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv today, leaving at least two persons dead and seven missing.

British troops of the First Infantry Division, alerted against a "blood for blood" reign of violence threatened by the Jewish underground unit, Irgun Zvai Leumi, surrounded Tel Aviv as rescue workers dug in the debris of the billet at Sarona.

All traffic was halted immediately between Tel Aviv and adjacent Jaffa.

Roads Are Blocked

In Jerusalem, all incoming and outgoing traffic was stopped by heavily armed roadblocks as the British checked on an anonymous telephone call—believed a diversionary hoax—that three British officers had been kidnapped.

Rumors persisted throughout the uneasy city that the British, ruling Palestine by mandate, were considering dissolution of the Jewish agency on the ground it had failed to curb Jewish extremists and thus had forfeited the right to speak for the Holy Land's Jewry.

The troops ringing Tel Aviv suggested the possibility of a drastic military crackdown on the Jewish city, in view of the recent warning to Mayor Israel Rokeach that such action would follow renewed violence.

Planted in Mail Truck

The explosives which wrecked the orderly room and telephone exchange of the Sarona billet were planted in a mail truck driven by a man in a police uniform, British authorities said. The driver disappeared. The blast came about 90 minutes after the van was driven through the gate and parked next to the orderly room.

Later, officials announced police had discovered that a bridge on the outskirts had been mined, but that the mine was removed without damage. The same bridge was blasted twice in previous outbreaks, once with the loss of three British army men and two Arabs.

The Sarona billet, home of many British officials and headquarters of the Palestine mobile forces, was attacked last month, but the attackers were driven off at the time, after laying down a gunfire barrage.

The development followed an announcement that five armed Jews had invaded the fashionable Park hotel near the beach at Tel Aviv during the night and abducted a British business man whom they later released when they discovered he was Jewish.

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP)—Mrs. Mary Smith, 80, was killed by an automobile as she walked across a street last night. Coroner William McClelland said the driver was the Rev. Charles A. Hartung, 69, pastor of the Pitcairn Methodist church, who had been visiting sick parishioners in West Penn hospital.

Britain had 70,000 women in its "land army" during World War II.

WALLACE SAYS STRIKE IN HOLY LAND IS USEFUL

Paris, April 25 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace declared today that a Jewish resistance movement in Palestine had been necessary to "arouse the conscience of the world."

Expressing faith that Britain would solve the Holy Land problem and hope that it would "carry out the original Balfour declaration," the former American vice president told a news conference that "there can never be peace in the world until justice has been done the Jewish people."

"I sympathize with the British and I deplore terrorism," Wallace said. "I have never believed in force of arms or force of money. But we do have to recognize facts. I think it has been necessary for the Jews to conduct what amounts to a resistance movement of their own to arouse the conscience of the world. I hope that the acts of terrorism will now cease and that the British people will carry out the original Balfour declaration."

To Tour U. S.

The Balfour declaration of Nov. 2, 1917, put the British government on record as favoring the establishment in Palestine of a national home for the Jewish people.

Wallace, rushing through a last busy day before flying tonight to the United States, where he will make a speaking tour next month, dashed from the news conference to a luncheon engagement with Leon Blum, former premier, and a group of Blum's socialist party members.

Wallace disclosed that his American tour would include a minimum of 15 speeches. He said he would present there the same views he has expressed in western Europe. "I am certain I shall find among the warm-hearted people of the United States the same kind of response I have found among the peace-loving peoples of western Europe," he said.

WAGE INCREASE BLOCKS HOPE OF STEEL PRICE CUT

New York, April 25 (AP)—An increase of "at least 15 cents" an hour granted 70,000 workers of the Bethlehem Steel company has "checked any probability" of the company's reducing steel prices, says Eugene G. Grace, Bethlehem chairman.

The increase was announced late yesterday by Grace and Joseph P. Moloney of Buffalo, chairman of the negotiators for the CIO United Steelworkers. Negotiations on other contract items continued today.

Moloney said the wage settlement provided a straight wage increase of 12½ cents but the overall hike would be "at least 15 cents."

Called "Unsound"

Grace, at a news conference, described the wage increase as "an unsound and uneconomical thing" that would increase the cost of the company's steel production $3 a ton. It followed a pattern set by U. S. Steel Corp. negotiations.

"We would manifestly have preferred to decrease steel prices $3 a ton, rather than raise wages, as a contribution toward stopping inflationary trends," Grace said.

The Bethlehem chairman announced the company's first quarter net income was $16,090,426, largest for any initial quarter in its history. "Assuming operations at virtual capacity throughout the year," Grace said, "with prices maintained at present levels, this increase will cost us between $5 and $6 a share on the common stocks."

The corporation's net income for 1946 was $41,731,931, equal to $11.79 a common share. Directors have been paying dividends of $1.50 a common share each quarter, and such a dividend was authorized yesterday, payable June 2 to stockholders of record May 5.

Bradford, Pa., April 25 (AP)—The Bradford district, Pennsylvania Oil Producers association, reported yesterday that crude production in the Bradford field during the week ended April 19 averaged 31,592 barrels a day, a decrease of 1,408 barrels from the preceding week.

In the adjacent Allegheny field, production for the same period was 9,509 barrels daily, a decline of 125 barrels.

Hollywood News

Hollywood, (AP)—Mary Pickford, whose childhood career is an important part of movie history, is searching for a girl to re-trace her steps.

The great lady of the screen gives all indications of finally getting back to film production after a 10-year lapse and many false starts. Among the pictures on her schedule is the P. Scott Fitzgerald story, "Babylon Revisited," which has an important role for a girl from eight to 11 years old. Mary will launch a wide search of a gifted girl and plans to nurture her career, with the possibility of reviving old Pickford vehicles.

Errol Flynn's purchase of Navy Island near Jamaica has stirred resentment among some oldtime islanders, but apparently it's nothing too serious. The actor is happy that his father will be retiring from his teaching post next year and will live on the island paradise.

The Civil War is engrossing studios these days, and with good reason; pictures of that period are nearly always good box-office. Several are getting into production and now MGM announces that "The History of Rome Hanks" will star Lana Turner, Gregory Peck, Van Heflin and Donna Reed.

Texas City will get a helping hand from Hollywood in the form of benevolent Mrs. Donald Stoner, Mrs. Charles B. Shorb and Mrs. Marie C. Rosensteel.

Have you brought your family here for Sunday dinner and had a golden brown roast chicken served and carved at your table? It's the most enjoyable way to eat out — and every course we prepare is mouth wateringly delicious!

Chapter 8
Martina awakened to the accompaniment of a ravenous hunger and knowledge that it was almost 11. She found Anne engulged in Sunday papers in the living-room, relaxed and ready for a good-fashioned talk. Fortified with orange juice, scrambled eggs, toast and a pot of coffee served on a table before the fire, Martina sought her friend up to date on her affairs.

"Of course, I was a little disappointed in having mother and dad dash off—but I'm used to it, and after all it would have been a pity for them to miss the opportunity of photographing Bryce again!"

Anne poured herself a cup of coffee and as she stirred it thoughtfully remarked, "I don't know—if I had my choice of parents I think I'd choose the stupid, dull, ill-favored kind—too much cleverness is a nuisance in a parent. I never stay put when you want them! Tell me, Martina—don't you ever wish for something really able, something to which you could tie your life with absolute certainty?"

Martina drew her straight brows together. The reference to her parents coming from Anne, did not mean the sting it might have from someone else. Now she nodded suddenly. "I'm terribly restless, Anne. I do have a feeling all the time as if I'm seeking something. Perhaps it's that stability you speak of. But since I've never been really sure what it is I want, of course I can't find it."

"This feeling," Anne questioned. Have you had it before, or only once you've been unable to sing?"

"Oh, I had it before. It's been with me always—as if, somehow, I weren't fulfilling my destiny. I've wondered about my success—and I did have quite a following you know."

"Still do, Cliff Neale has a bunch of letters for you."

"I'm glad, naturally. But I can't believe my voice is really remarkable. My success, such as it is, has come from having Cliff Neale arrange and manage my programs in such a way that he's made me seem important."

"Svengali to your Tribby, eh?"

"Oh, nothing like that—but you know that Cliff's much too important to still be putting me on and off the air! He announces some of the biggest programs, and to come down of mornings to sing the praises of a certain brand of shortening and say in that charming voice of his—Martina Wayland sings—Well I just can't see why he does it!"

Anne snorted. "You're pretty dumb then, ducky! The guy's in love with you!"

Martina laughed. "You think everybody is in love! You've forgotten that there is anything besides the problems of the lovebirds in the world!"

"Well, is there? It's you who have forgotten what makes the world go round! But seriously, I'd rather see you marry Cliff Neale than Graddy Hueston."

Martina put down her cup in utter exasperation. "Who said I was going to marry either of them?"

"You will, I suppose, finally take the one that puts on the most pressure. That's likely to be Graddy, too, darn it! I was mistaken a moment ago—it's really Graddy who is your Svengali!"

"I met some rather wonderful people yesterday, Anne." And briefly she told of her trip to the modest brown house in Hemlock Street and her impression of Hattie Holloway.

"There was a sort of—inner radiance about the woman, Anne. I can't explain it. She certainly has that sureness, that stability we were speaking of. I know she was scared and worried to death, but she just stood still for a moment and I felt as if she were consciously drawing on something—some power she'd used often before. I'd like to know more of a woman like that."

Anne said, "Maybe it was Destiny, catapulting you into an experience that will help you find whatever it is you're looking for. I'd say you're just plain lonely. You need someone to—to really belong to!"

Martina laughed. "And you wouldn't recommend Graddy?"

"Definitely not. He's a stifling sort of man!"

The telephone shrilled. Anne said, "That's probably Graddy now, all ready to arrange everything down to the minutest detail." And sure enough it was!

"The roads are much better today, Martina," he said. "I phoned the Automobile Club to find out. So if you like, I'll drive you home whenever you say."

"It seems such a shame when you're going to make the trip out Tuesday night anyway—"

He laughed. "Don't be modest! You know how much of a punishment being with you is!"

"Then I suppose we'd better start well before dark. I'll phone Aunt Augusta and you can stay and have dinner with us."

"Fine!" They set the hour of departure and Graddy hung up.

Anne said tersely, "I think I'll phone Cliff you're in town. It's not fair to Graddy to have the complete inside track."

The doorbell rang sharply. "Now moment of serenity. She had never felt more utterly stripped of pretense as she answered that straight glance.

"I hope we'll go on being friends, Dan. I think you'd make a good friend."

He didn't stay long after that but he was so evidently pleased and stated that she could do nothing less than match his mood with her own delight.

"I'll call you soon if I may."

"Please do and thanks for the roses—they're my favorites. And thanks to your mother for the invitation—"

She walked with him to the door, watched him to the elevator. As he got in, with a wave of his hat, Graddy Hueston got out. They stopped to shake hands, briefly and impersonally.

Coming into the apartment Graddy said, "That young man seems to be losing no time!"

Martina giggled. Even Graddy's pompous managing could not now dampen her spirit. Her friendship with Dan Holloway loomed on her horizon like an exciting adventure. She had never known anyone like him before.

Anne came in. "Hello, Graddy. Where's Dan Holloway, Martina? I liked him. He's straight-forward."

Martina hugged her, knowing he was trying to annoy Graddy. "He's gone. I'm glad you liked him, Anne. I do, too!"

Graddy said stiffly, "What does the fellow do? What's his business?"

"I didn't really think to ask."

"Humph!"

Anne Amory chose this enchanted moment to say, perhaps feeling a little sorry for Graddy, "I thought you said he was interested in some trained nurse!"

Martina sobered instantly. She had entirely forgotten Nora Byron—the tall blonde girl with such steady gray eyes. Nora Byron whom Hattie Holloway hoped someday would be her "real daughter."

"He is," she said in answer to Anne's question. "His mother assured me yesterday that Dan will probably marry this Nora Byron very soon. He only brought me the flowers because he felt obligated on account of the wreck!"

"Well!" Graddy cried, a beatific smile played over his features as he sighed in relief, "that's better! That's very much better!"

Chapter 10

Clifford Neale stood on the terrace with Martina looking up into the wind-swept March sky. The luminous clouds raced madly against the moon, turning the still sleeping garden and hedge into magic. Behind them lay the old house, gray-stoned and ivy-hung, with the shining casement windows sending pools of light among the shadows.

Cliff was a tall young man, perfectly groomed, not handsome, but vigorously attractive. His eyes were on the slender girl beside him. "She's too thin," he thought, "there's something in her that's driving her—her spirit eats up her flesh."

Aloud he said, "Martina, we all miss you terribly."

She smiled. "Thanks, Cliff. It's nice to be missed."

"You'll be coming back before long, of course."

"I don't know. Dr. Foster doesn't say much, and Graddy let me sing a tiny bit this evening while you and Anne were at the barn with Mr. Allerton. He said it sounded terrible!"

"Graddy's a perfectionist, and so much in love with you he's a little on the old-hen side when it comes to your welfare. Did it ever occur to you to get someone else's opinion?"

She looked up at him in surprise. "Why, no. It never did. Graddy started giving me singing lessons when I was sixteen—no one else seemed necessary." She looked straight into his eyes. "Tell me the truth, Cliff—I haven't a really good voice, have I?"

He squirmed a little. "Not grand opera quality, perhaps—"

She nodded. "I told Anne the other day I owe most of whatever success I have to you. You've made me seem important."

He turned her about, both hands on her shoulders, seeking to see her eyes. Martina Wayland, I could shake you. And by George, I believe I will!" He suited the action to the word. "You're just being blind, self-centered! Feeling sorry for yourself. Now look here! Before too long you're coming back to us—and to your public! Your voice is going to be all right! And it's a good voice, so don't you dare disparage it! When you've had time to go over that batch of fan mail I brought down, you'll get a terrific build-up. And furthermore—would it surprise you very much if I told you that I, myself, need you very much?"

She was silent after this trade for a moment, then he felt her shoulders begin to vibrate under his hands, and to his astonishment he knew she was laughing, even if a little hysterically. "Cliff, darling, thanks a lot! But it isn't true, of course—about your needing me. You don't need anybody really. You're the most self-sufficient person I've ever known."

He flushed a little, then laughed with her. "Martina, I love you a great deal."

"And I love you, Cliff, dear—but not with my whole heart, any more than you do me. At least you've been extremely necessary to me on my programs!"

"Well, that's something! Honey, are you going to marry Graddy?"

"He hasn't asked me."

He raised his eyebrows. "He will. And of course he's too old for you—"

"My father's age."

"But he'd cherish and care for you as perhaps no one else ever would. It is, I believe, an entirely selfless love on Graddy's part."

Suddenly she knew it was true, and she felt very humble about it. She was ashamed of her irritation with Graddy which often showed itself in sarcasm and petulance. Ashamed that she sometimes resented his apparent interference in her affairs.

"I'm glad you're not in love with me, Cliff," she said smiling. "It gives me such a free feeling of being able to talk things over with you. I need a friend like that."

"Then you won't forget you can always call on me?"

"I won't forget." She laughed in that quick way that was like a flash of sunlight through clouds.

It had been a pleasant, quiet evening. The three guests were enchanted with the house and its surroundings. They had explored every nook and corner and had sat down to one of Mrs. Allerton's special menus—old ham and golden-brown fried chicken, tiny beaten biscuits, delectable vegetables and salad, and a cherry pie topped with whipped cream—the contribution of Rose, the cow. They had liked cheerful, pleasant-faced Aunt Augusta—there had been much laughter and good conversation around the gleaming, candle-lit table.

Graddy said, "This house always does something to me—it has a tranquility I've found nowhere else. I'm glad you're staying here, Martina. I think I see some of the serenity transferring itself to you."

"He's a fool," Anne thought. "She's stretched as tight as a wire."

"Well, we'd better be thinking of getting back to town now," Anne suggested, stretching idly and making no move to start.

The telephone shrilled and instinctively the three pairs of eyes followed Martina as she went to answer it. That's why each one noted, with different reactions, the sudden lighting of her face, the quick rush of color, the excited deepening of her eyes, the trembling of her hands holding the instrument. Anne Amory, accustomed more than the others to noting and recording emotions, felt that all evening Martina had been waiting for this moment—that somehow the whole of her existence had been keyed to the hope that the telephone would ring. She was not surprised when she heard Martina's voice saying breathlessly, "Oh—it's you, Dan! Nice of you to call!"

CHAPTER 11

Martina turned away from the telephone. "That," she said quite unnecessarily, "was Dan Holloway—the man—"

Anne nodded, remarked dryly. "The man who wrecked your car. So we gathered!"

"I liked him," Martina went on, a little weakly, her eyes on Graddy's suddenly closed-up face. "He has a wonderful mother—she's little, but oh, so strong—he said his sister who was hurt in the wreck is still improving."

"He told you that yesterday," Graddy said tersely.

"Yes, but—but I asked him to keep me informed. After all, I was pretty much involved in the accident—"

She didn't say that he was coming down the next evening—she didn't have to, for they had all clearly heard her giving him directions as to how to get there. She didn't say that her heart was beating high with excitement, and that there was a strange ringing in her ears—they somehow guessed that too. It was with difficulty that she saw them into their wraps and out the door.

Anne kissed her cheek lightly and said only, "Thanks, ducky, for a perfectly grand evening. Don't forget to call me the next time you come up to town."

"I won't forget."

Cliff put his arm around her. "You'll have dinner with me soon, won't you darling?"

"Whenever you say, Cliff."

Suddenly only Graddy was left, his eyes above his white muffer miserable and remote. He towered above her, big and dependable in his heavy top-coat. Martina had an awful feeling of wanting to cry. He

EGG SHORTAGE MAY BE SERIOUS

Harrisburg, April 25 (AP)—Scattered shortages of consumer eggs in some localities of Pennsylvania may portend a "more serious" scarcity in months ahead, the Agriculture department said today.

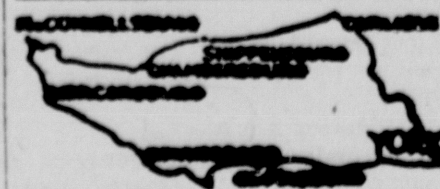

Asserting the scarcity is not general although unusual for this season of the year, the department said a reported slackening up of farmer orders for baby chicks "may make the situation more serious in the months ahead."

"Mounting costs of poultry feed to record levels have resulted in farmers and poultrymen carrying smaller flocks and reducing advance orders for replacements," the department said.

It added a federal-state survey showed production of 309,000,000 eggs in March was 36,000,000 or about 10 per cent less than for March last year, while there were six per cent fewer layers in farm flocks this spring.

The department added "a sure sign of shorter supplies" was the fact consumer prices are still advancing after eggs, for the first time in years, failed to drop before Easter. Only 10,000 cases of shell eggs were in cold storage plants in Pennsylvania on April 1, compared with 20,000 cases a year previous.

Baltimore Livestock

CATTLE-Slaughter cattle receipts at the close of the week extremely light. Demand broad on the part of all interests and trading in general very active, in fact it was one of the most active markets in several months, especially where cows were concerned. Slaughter steers fully steady to strong with earlier this week. Four strictly choice fed steers, around 1,000 pounds, $26 for top price. The load lot top $24.75 for top-grade and choice fed averaged 1,070 pounds, with a few loads and several lots $23.50-24.50. Medium to average-good lightweight short-fed 20-23, with strictly medium $19.

The heifer supply too meager to warrant any material change from earlier this week. Medium and good $15-22, with a single choice $24; top this class. Cows unevenly $10-11 higher than former days this week, with scarcity the main supporting factor in the advance. Good young heifer-type beef, in mostly old head lots, $17.50-18.50, with a few $20. Common and medium dairy-breeding $15.50-15.99, with top-medium $16.50. Canners and cutters $10-13, with "shelly" canners at the first figure.

Bulls 50c higher than earlier this week. Good beef $18-19.50, with two head $20.50. Medium and good weighty sausage $16-17.50, with light and mediumweight $13-15.50. Stockers and feeders active and steady with former days this week. Top-grade feeder steers, in a load lot, averaging 645 pounds, $21.50. Medium and good stocker and feeder, $18-20.75, with common $19.

CALVES-vealers in broad demand, active and steady with Wednesday. Mixed lots, medium and good $19-22, with top largely $20-24, with strictly choice $25. Common and medium, $8-15, and culls $5.

HOGS-Receipts slightly increased over the same period a week ago. After major declines amounting to $1.75 the past two days, today's market reacted and all interests paid prices 75c above Wednesday's market to advance today's practical top to $24. Good and choice barrows and sows, 120-140 pounds, $20.50-20.75; 140-160 pounds, $21.50-21.75; 160-180 pounds, $22-23.25; 180-220 pounds, $23.75-24; 220-250 pounds, $23-23.50; 250-300 lbs., $21-21.25; 300-350 pounds, $19.75-20; 350 pounds up, $18.75-19. Good and choice $16.75-17, with heavy sows considerably lower.

SHEEP-Receipts of woolled lambs too meager today to warrant a fair test of the market. Action centered on small supply of spring lambs active and steady with earlier this week. Steers, lots of good and choice 70-85-pound spring lambs $10. Slaughter ewes scarce and nominally steady. Good and choice, $9 down.

Clarion, Pa., April 25 (AP)-Directors of Clarion park have announced plans to set up flood lights, with eight 100-foot towers, at the football-baseball field, at a cost of $31,346.

funds in demonstrating public library service primarily in rural areas. . . and further provide that "Two types of plans may be submitted: one calling for a basic demonstration using $25,000 per year for four years in each state, financed entirely by federal funds, or an expanded plan may be added to this which would allow states to match an additional $25,000 to $75,000 of federal funds annually for four years."

There is reason to hope that should these bills be passed, that Adams county could be selected to receive this federal aid in Pennsylvania, not because it is a more backward county than others in the state, but because the Adams County Free Library association has shown that it can develop and put into effect a good, workable library program to reach persons in rural areas heretofore without such service, and that the county would provide a true proving ground in further expansion of library facilities to bring the library service somewhere approaching at least, a status of adequacy. In other words, Adams county is a typical rural community in which the value of library extension work could be demonstrated. The bookmobile, and the branch libraries have proven the fact.

Everybody talks about the value of good books, but not too much is done about it. The public library is considered the most important means of adult education, and is second only to schools in educational importance for children. Libraries need help. The demonstration bill would give it to them. It is our problem to recognize what our community needs, and ask for it. Write to Congressman Chester H. Gross or Senators, Francis Myers, Edward Martin and Robert Taft, asking their support. Do so at once. The fiscal year begins June 1. Get the bill passed before that date so that delays are avoided in carrying out the provisions of the bill.

The annual Buddy Poppy sale, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, is the under way. It is hoped that the 1946 record sale of fifteen million poppies will be exceeded this year. Revenue from the poppy sale

The Indiana legislature recently adopted the most unique resolution we have ever read. Here it is, in part, without further comment:

"Indiana needs no guardian and intends to have none. We Hoosiers, like the people of our sister states, were fooled for quite a spell with the magician's trick that a dollar taxed out of our pockets and sent to Washington will be bigger when it comes back to us.

"We have taken a good look at said dollar.

"We find that it lost weight in its journey to Washington and back. The political brokerage of the bureaucrats has been deducted. We have decided that there is no such thing as federal aid. We know that there is no wealth to tax that is not already within the boundaries of the 48 states.

"So we propose henceforth to tax ourselves and take care of ourselves. We are fed up with subsidies, doles and paternalism. We are no one's stepchild. We have grown up. We serve notice that we will resist Washington, D. C. adopting us."

SAYS MOSCOW DEADLOCK IS ACHIEVEMENT

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Big Four Foreign Ministers' conference, which assembled at Moscow a month and a half ago to frame German and Austrian peace treaties, has collapsed in deadlock and so is being recorded as a failure on major points.

Still, it strikes me that in a broader sense we don't have to take such a pessimistic view. The very deadlock in itself is a mark of vast achievement. It means that the Western Allies have refused to retreat further in face of the Russian political offensive which already has swallowed a large section of Europe.

We had to reach this point sometime, and it's better that it should come now than later. It would have been better if it had come a lot sooner, for that matter.

Western Group Unified

The battle now is likely to be fought on its present lines, without further retirement by the American-British-French group which, it's important to note, has been further unified by the trend of the conference.

This means that we are much closer to finding out just what the Muscovite program of expansion is. Up to now there hasn't been any concrete indication of how far Russia has intended to go, and there could be no such indication so long as the other allies continued to appease and retreat. Human nature being what it is, the Soviet Union was bound to keep right on advancing until it encountered an obstruction.

Now as the result of the determined stand by the Western group under leadership of General Marshall, Moscow may be expected to show its hand before long. Russia will pursue one of two courses:

Either she will make concessions in the interest of putting Europe on its feet, or she will keep right on pressing for control of more territory and more peoples.

Time For Showdown

You perhaps are thinking Russia's silence at this time bodes ill. I don't think it would be wise to try to answer that now. We must recognize that Moscow is suspicious and wants to be satisfied that the Western Allies have no designs inimical to Russia. Let's give the dish a bit more time to cook.

There are, of course, those who claim that standing up to Russia will lead to war, though they produce no valid reason why it should. If either Russia or the Western democracies have unholy ambitions for expansion, then nothing can prevent war in any event.

A showdown now will tell both sides how the land lies. If we are to have peace, then we can get ahead with the rehabilitation of the war-devastated countries. If we find that we unhappily are headed for war, then we can prepare our defenses.

'Twas Ever Thus!

There is no better time than now to put your shoulder to the plow. When that is done, enrich your soil and work your plot with honest toil. Drive off the pests; don't spare the spray. Keep on the job each sunny day. And then, in time, those tiny seeds will blossom into sturdy weeds.

And, there is no better time than now to have that wiring done. Electrical wiring and installation work is the specialty of Roy's. For work of importance, don't take a chance with just anyone. Be sure of a good job and come to ROY'S APPLIANCE REPAIR SERVICE SHOP, R. D. 3.

There are, of course, those who claim that standing up to Russia will lead to war, though they produce no valid reason why it should. If either Russia or the Western democracies have unholy ambitions for expansion, then nothing can prevent war in any event.

A showdown now will tell both sides how the land lies. If we are to have peace, then we can get ahead with the rehabilitation of the war-devastated countries. If we find that we unhappily are headed for war, then we can prepare our defenses.

Grocers Renew Objections To State's Restrictions On Sale Of Oleomargarine

CLAIM GRANGE AND DAIRYMEN APPLY PRESSURE

Harrisburg, April 25 (AP)—Renewed objections to any restrictions on the sale of oleomargarine came from Pennsylvania grocers as the general Assembly adjourned today for the week-end.

Asserting a proposal to impose a $5-a-year license fee on handlers of margarine "is class legislation of the rankest kind," Charles H. Von Tagen, chairman of the Pennsylvania food and trade committee on margarine distribution said:

"Some Republicans in the Senate apparently are yielding to pressure being put on by the Pennsylvania State Grange and the dairy interests."

No Reason for Special Tax
Von Tagen said he referred to a measure introduced by Sen. Weldon H. Heyburn (R-Delaware) at the request of Sen. George B. Scarlett (R-Chester) continuing a present ban against coloring oleo in advance of sale, fixing a $5 license fee and requiring reports on sales.

"There is no more reason for a special tax on margarine than there is on any other food sold in grocery stores," Von Tagen said in a statement. "Our committee intends to use every legitimate means of trying to make the legislature see the light and remove restrictions from the sale of margarine."

Sen. William S. Rahmeyer (D-Allegheny) also raised the issue of ending oleomargarine restrictions on the Senate floor yesterday, calling on the upper branch to repeal all existing laws regulating its sale.

Control Without Reason
He said the State Supreme Court recently invalidated license fees of $500 for wholesalers and $100 for retailers but left intact regulations on sale, advertising and packaging. "The bureaucratic control remains without any reason for the control," the senator added.

A repeal introduced by Sen. Louis Farrell (R-Phila.) has been on the Senate calendar for weeks without action and Sen. Scarlett said earlier this week it will be dropped and the $5 license measure substituted for it.

Scarlett, chairman of the Senate

Mrs. Flora Gracy (above), 36, said she was "so surprised" when she heard that four persons whose body was found stuffed in a trunk on a highway near Keyport, N. J. Mrs. Gracy is working in a restaurant at Cambridge, Ohio, and her husband, a master sergeant, is in Tokyo.

agriculture committee, said he will "fight" any effort to remove all restrictions on oleo because "the public should know what it is buying."

Delay Action
He added a requirement that grocers file monthly reports with the state will work "no hardship" since they already make the same reports to the federal government.

Further action, meanwhile, was put off until next week, when both the Senate and House will reconvene on a daylight time schedule, on such issues as taxes, school teachers' salaries and controversial labor legislation the last two of which were aired at public hearings this week.

The Senate also advanced for a final vote a Republican-backed resolution to ratify a proposed amendment to the U. S. constitution limiting presidential tenure to two elected terms or 10 years.

MORE CHURCHES ASKED TO JOIN WORLD COUNCIL

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., April 25 (AP)—Eighteen missionary churches in distant countries are being invited to join the World Council of Churches with the expressed hope that the move would further efforts "to evangelize the whole of human life."

A joint committee of the World Council and the International Missionary Council stated today in a resolution urging the invitation that "it was sensible of the fact that there is special need to proclaim to the world all that the gospel means both for the individual and for the social and political order."

It noted "with special gratitude" that both councils "used the term evangelism in its full sense as meaning both personal evangelism and the application of the gospel to social life."

"Help Cure Ills"
Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, Ohio, president of the Federal Council of Churches, said "issuance of invitations to missionary churches in the farthest corners of the world including many millions of communicants, is a most interesting item because it shows the wide outreach of the Christian church and the opportunities to help cure the ills of our present times."

The Most Rev. George Bell, Bishop of Chichester, England, addressing the closing session of the World Council's provisional committee meeting here, said in a call to the churches for next year's world assembly at Amsterdam that the council "now has over 100 churches in its membership, a declaration of unity and a means of helping the churches to work together and to do the Christian work which should be done."

The provisional committee adopted a resolution submitted by the ecumenical refugee commission saying "over-crowded conditions of Germany and Austria—with reduced territory, greatly inflated population and insufficient resources—make it imperative to resettle elsewhere the largest possible number of displaced persons and refugees."

Washington, April 25 (AP)—Rep. Mitchell Jenkins (R-Pa.), planned a second attempt today to defeat an appropriations committee recommendation that the government's anthracite laboratory be established in Schuylkill Haven, Pa.

Catholic War Vets Holding Convention

Altoona, Pa., April 25 (AP)—Resolutions and reports came before the sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Department, Catholic War Veterans today.

Principal speaker of the day was Msgr. Leo W. Kildea, national chaplain and a lieutenant commander in the World War II. The convention closes Saturday with an address by Max H. Sorenson, Kansas City, Ohio.

Yesterday, some 500 delegates heard addresses by the Rev. Thomas E. Madden, chancellor of the Altoona diocese; Lee Wertz, Tyrone, district commander for the American Legion; J. Lester Laughlin, district commander for the Veterans of Foreign Wars; and Catholic vet-

Union Head Orders End Of Stoppage

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP)—Local 1407 of the United Steelworkers faced revocation of its charter today, USW Vice President James G. Thimmes reported, unless its leaders end a four-day work stoppage at the Glassport plant of the Copperweld Steel company.

In an exchange of telegrams yesterday, Thimmes ordered the work stoppage by 1,100 employees halted and Local President Stephen Poller replied that 600 of the strikers have voted to continue idle and "uphold their local leaders."

MOTOR TRUCKS	12	$50 TO $300	1.9% TO 3.6%

PLOWS	52	$9 TO $20	3.0% TO 10.7%
CULTIVATORS	13	$5 TO $10	4.5% TO 7.4%

This is a partial list of price reductions. Others listed at right.

Details of the International Harvester policy of making price reductions to save customers approximately $20,000,000 a year have now been worked out.

Prices have been reduced on 163 models. These cover 12 basic models of farm tractors, 123 basic models of farm machines, 16 basic models of industrial tractors and engines, and 12 models of motor trucks, as well as certain motor truck attachments. The new lower prices are effective as of March 10, 1947.

These reductions were made not because of any decline in demand, but because the company believes nothing is more important than to lower the prices of the goods people buy.

While prices have not been changed on all products, reductions have been made wherever possible, in the amounts possible. Prices of many of the most popular products have been substantially lowered.

Altogether, more than half of the company's customers will be benefited by the reductions, which range from 1% to 23.8% and from $2.50 to $300 per item, based on the company's list prices.

The ability to maintain these lower prices will depend on the supply and price of materials the company buys from others and on uninterrupted production at reasonable wage levels.

The prices listed here carry out the announced policy that "Any price is too high if it can be reduced." As dealers in this territory, we will do our part!

SCIENTISTS ASK BAN ON ATOMIC POWER STUDIES

Chicago, April 25 (AP)—Two engineers who helped construct the Oak Ridge atomic bomb plant today proposed a world-wide ban for an entire generation on the development of industrial atomic power to avoid the "risk" of atomic warfare.

The benefits of industrial atomic power are "not worth the risk," they contended.

The suggestion was advanced in the bulletin of the atomic scientists by Cuthbert Daniel, a chemical engineer, and Arthur M. Squires, a physical chemist.

No Pressing Industrial Need
They contended no pressing need existed for industrial atomic power and that the huge facilities required for producing such power could be converted into bomb making.

The engineers maintained that the problem of international control of atomic matters would be greatly simplified if atomic production were limited to the amount of materials needed only by scientific uses. They estimated sufficient fissionable material already was on hand in the United States to meet the world's scientific needs for years to come and proposed that this be distributed to research stations throughout the world.

"It seems to us that large-scale atomic power would not be developed in any country for many generations, if it were not for the direct or indirect support of the military in every major country," they said. "Development cost is high, prospects of early economic benefits are negligible, and long-range economic importance is problematical."

U. S. And Russia "Poles Apart"
They said the United States and the Soviet Union were "poles apart" on the issue of international inspection of atomic energy plants and there was "the deep conviction on each side that the other is trying to outmaneuver, surround and eventually overpower it." They added:

"Usually compromise is reached by each side's giving up part of its position. In this case we propose that both sides give up the same thing x x x whereby the principal tool of military power is removed from the hands of both sides, by agreement, without loss of the foreseeable benefits of nuclear science to either side."

Their proposal contemplated a world-wide agreement banning new atomic industrial plants and creation of an atomic development authority for world geological surveys, inspections and research.

Would Dismantle
As soon as safeguards were adopted, they proposed that America's atomic bomb plants be dismantled and their supplies of fissionable materials distributed for research.

"If our generation establishes peace, any future generation can establish nuclear power; if our generation fails to establish peace, no one for many generations can develop nuclear power or anything else," they said.

Daniel and Squires aided in construction of the gaseous diffusion plant at Oak Ridge.

URGE UNIFORM HOSPITAL RATES

Pittsburgh, April 25 (AP)—Uniform hospital charges throughout the state were urged at sessions of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania by speakers who recommended accounting studies to determine exactly how much specified services cost the hospitals to perform.

N. J. Sepp, assistant superintendent of West Penn hospital here, declared a survey of 38 hospitals showed private room rates varied from $5.00 to $8.50, semi-private rooms ranged from $4.50 to $6.50 and wards from $3.50 to $5.00. Similar variances were noted in the charges made for blood tests, transfusions, X-ray treatments and operating room services.

He joined with Charles S. Paxson, Jr., superintendent of Delaware County hospital, Drexel Hill, in urging that charges be based on true costs.

Clement W. Hunts, director of the Capital Hospital Service, Harrisburg, stated the difference in charges was due in part to the policy adopted by some hospitals which make paying patients help pay for the cost of free patients. He added: "paying patients must be relieved of this cost."

Pa. Tuberculosis Society Elects

Harrisburg, April 25 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society reelected Dr. R. H. McCutcheon, of Bethlehem, as its president.

Other officers re-elected at the closing session of the society's annual convention here yesterday were: Dr. John Edgar Pretz, Easton, first vice-president; Col. Henry W. Shoemaker, McElhattan, second vice-president; John H. Biddle, Huntingdon, secretary; Milton D. Reinhold, Philadelphia, treasurer; and Thomas Raeburn White, Philadelphia, solicitor.

There were about 214,000 auto service stations in the United States in 1945.

Later he was employed by the Automotive Supply company in its York and Lancaster stores from 1926 to 1930. In the latter years he went to Washington, D. C., to manage an ice cream store. He returned to Gettysburg in 1935 to work for his brother, H. M. Oyler, in the Oyler Tire stations here, on Carlisle street, at York and Stratton streets and in York, Pa. OBSERVANCE OF 'CHILD HEALTH' WEEK IS URGED

The Adams County Red Cross today urged schools, parents and organizations to observe Child Health Week from April 27 to May 3 as a time for special emphasis on training youngsters in better health activities and accident prevention.

Of every four children who die each year, one is killed in an accident, the Red Cross stated. The frequency and severity of accidents to children causes untold suffering. It was added. In an ordinary year over 7,500 children are crippled because of severe burns and 21,000 others because of other injuries including lough spent a day recently in Washington, D. C., with Miss C. Ell Willis who is confined to bed by illness.

Alton White, superintendent of the Fairfield schools, has announced that beginning Monday, April 28, the schools will be on daylight saving time.

severe and complicated fractures.

Burns And Falls Lead

The Red Cross listed the following as the principal causes of accidents to children in the home:

Burns, including scalds, caused when children reach for hot things on the stove or who are under foot in the kitchen and are burned when mother spills hot liquids; surface burns — caused by contact with stoves, irons, electric heaters, and other hot objects; and burns resulting from playing with matches.

Falls caused when infants are left unattended on beds, when stairways are not guarded for toddlers, and when window screens are not securely fastened.

Poisons On List

Poisons resulting not so much from children actually taking common poisons such as insecticides, lye, and other household poisons, but more commonly resulting from children taking an overdose of adult medicines, especially the candy-coated or brightly colored ones, which frequently are left within reach of youngsters.

Wounds resulting from knives and other kitchen utensils being left within reach of children, electric fans, allowing children to use sharp-pointed scissors or sharp-pointed toys, glasses and other dishes being left within easy reach of youngsters too young to handle them, etc.

Internal injuries resulting from unsafe toys, as for example — toys with small detachable parts which are easily swallowed; toys with small glass eyes or small wheels which may be easily pulled off and then swallowed; toys colored with poisonous paints; lollipops on sharp sticks, etc.

Suffocation And Drowning Foreign bodies in the mouth, eyes, or ears — such as bobble pins, pins, and other small objects which can be easily swallowed.

Electric shock resulting from allowing children to play with electrical outlets and fixtures or resulting from defective wiring.

Suffocation, especially among infants, caused when infant is given a pillow or when covering is not securely fastened to keep baby from becoming tangled in it.

Drownings, caused when small children are left in the bath tub while mother does other tasks. An infant may drown if he slips down into the water; a slightly older child may drown because, out of curiosity, he turns on the tap and fills the tub too full of water.

Gunshot wounds, more frequent among children from five to fourteen years of age, caused when firearms are left within reach.

"COFFEE AND CHIPS"

Pittsburgh, April 24 (AP)—Paul E. Ryan, Liquor Control Board enforcement officer, testified yesterday that persons ordering "coffee and potato chips" at the Babcock Boulevard Casino in the early hours of Sunday morning received whisky and beer instead.

Rev. Robert H. Sheehan, pastor of Centenary Methodist church, has returned home after attending a week of sessions of the annual conference of Methodist churches of Central Pennsylvania, held in Harrisburg. While at the conference, Rev. Sheehan was admitted on trial and ordained deacon by Bishop Charles W. Flint, of the Washington area. Mrs. Sheehan and Miss Ida Crouse attended the ordination services. Rev. Sheehan received notice of his transfer to Conyngham, in the Sunbury district. Rev. Grant-as E. Hooper, Hustontown, has been transferred to the pastorate of the Littlestown church, replacing Rev. Sheehan.

About half the sounds a human being makes with his voice are made within the mouth, the other half coming from the vocal cords.

Women's voices are somewhat harder to understand over the telephone than men's.

From 1887 to 1913 the arable acreage of Britain fell from 17,700,000 to 14,500,000.

In making a call across the United States by telephone, the human voice is reamplified about 180 times.

We love 'em in December as we do in May

REMEMBER the day you first romped away in that Buick of yours? How those eight Fireball cylinders fairly floated you over the hills—how those road-steady two tons of lively car answered sweetly every light touch of your hand on the wheel—how you glided along with foursquare BuCoil springing smoothing every wrinkle in the road?

That's what your Buick was built to do. Years and years of that kind of driving are in it—especially when it gets the interested, informed car care this fine an automobile should have.

That doesn't mean just periodic lubrication, a body wash, battery check or bolt-tighten. It means thorough attention by competent Buick men—attention that keeps a Buick always a Buick.

Buicks are our babies. Even the smallest details are handled the way they should be for a Buick. We have Buick tools that do jobs better and quicker. We have men who know Buicks best. We have Buick-engineered parts that are precisely right for your car.

Put that all together and it's Buick car care.

Pretty clear, isn't it, that here is where your Buick will receive the best attention? After all, we love 'em heart and soul.

"TOP" SECRET

One of the things that play a part in Fireball snap is Buick's wafer-thin steel cylinder gasket. Just 15 thousandths of an inch thick, it's a "must" for the high compression this powerful straight-eight is designed for. Other kinds that are thicker cut down the compression and the car's liveliness.

In carbon and valve jobs, or any other where this gasket must be replaced, only this Buick gasket will assure the fit Buick engineers intended. No wise Buick owner would have any other in his engine.

Just another example of how you get more for your money—in major adjustments, tune-ups, lubrication or anything your car needs—when you make sure it gets Buick car care.

good God will give you a happy Easter. When UNRRA passed out packages I also received one with your lovely letter and address. I thought that I should write and thank you for this. I am a widow of 35 years of age. And my husband was killed in the war. I have two children, one a girl is 14 years old, and the boy is 7 years old. The girl's name is Aleki and the boy's name is Athan. I live with my mother-in-law who is 75 years old.

Thrifty folks make regular deposits to a Littlestown National Savings Account. An opportune time to buy will find them ready to act.
